讲座内容

Privatization has been a major feature of many industrialized and developing economies during the 1980''s and 1990''s. A recent unpublished paper indicates the financial magnitude of privatization on a global scale, and the impact this has had in changing the proportion of GDP contributed by State Owned Enterprises (SOEs) in industrial, and developing countries. It also extensively reviews empirical studies of the effects of privatization, concluding that, on the whole, these are economically beneficial.
