

Studying at York

Undergraduate

- ▶ Courses
- ▶ Undergraduate prospectus

Postgraduate

- ▶ Taught courses
- ▶ Research degrees

International students

Online and distance learning

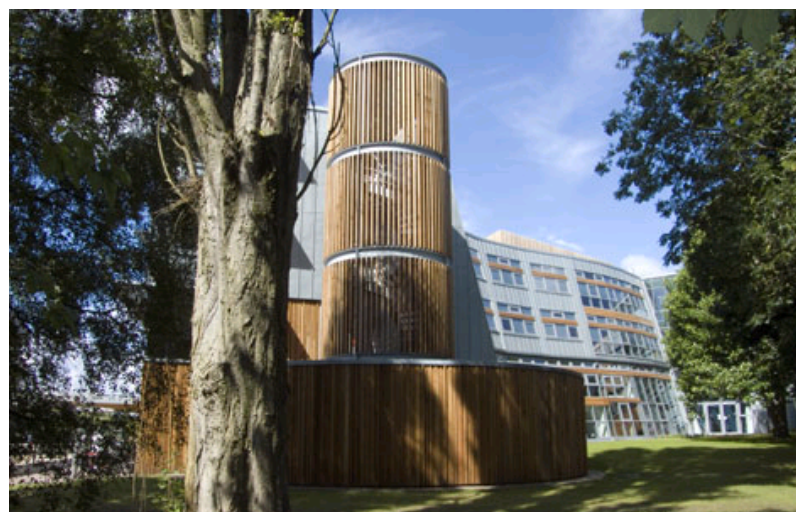

Academic departments

Research and innovation

- ▶ Research
- ▶ Business and industry

Information about

- ▶ The University
- ▶ Job vacancies
- ▶ Visiting the University
- ▶ Alumni, benefactors and friends
- ▶ Colleges

News

New genetic map will speed up plant breeding of the world's most important medicinal crop

Plant scientists at the University of York have published the first genetic map of the medicinal herb Artemisia annua

How should business react to carbon change? Yorkshire shows the way

Simon Armitage to give reading at the University of York

More news and events »

Featured research

Balancing the effects of palm oil production

A new project led by the University of York aims to reduce biodiversity losses linked to palm oil production in tropical agricultural landscapes.

More featured research »

Adverse weather conditions

Important advice for students returning to University »

Featured video

Experience our beautiful campus and see what life is like at the University of York

Videos »

Awards and partnerships

Queen's Anniversary Prizes

The University has been awarded four Queen's Anniversary Prizes for Further and Higher Education.

More awards and partnerships »

