Agric. Econ. – Czech

Ilak Peršurić A.S.:

Social roles of farmwomen: The case of Croatia

Agric. Econ. – Czech, 57 (2011): 297-307

The article is based on a field research of family farms in Croatia. On a sample of 350 farmwomen their social roles were analysed. The keys of the gender division of typical feminine tasks such as household tasks, family care tasks and the position in the family and on farm was analysed. Through statistical data processing in multivariate matrixes the latent matrix of independent variables:

family, professional position and farm economic status showed significant
