The International Conference on China and World Economy in Post Crisis Era

Nanjing, China, 21-22 November, 2009

Call for Papers

China Society of World Economics (CSWE) in conjunction with School of Economics and Management at Southeast University, Federation of Philosophy and Social Sciences of Jiangsu Province, the journal of China & World Economy will jointly organise the International Conference on China and World Economy in Post Crisis Era in Nanjing, China, 21-22 November, 2009.

The ongoing international financial crisis, which started in the United States in September, 2008 has brought grave challenges to global economy. The crisis has profound causes and could have complex and diversified financial and economic effects on world economy at different time horizons. Amidst a global financial crisis which was rarely seen in history, it is of great significance to bring together experts and scholars of different countries to explore ways to promote world economic growth and discuss the role that China plays in maintaining international financial stability. Under these circumstances, this international conference seeks to undertake a comprehensive review and analysis on the current financial crisis and hear wisdom from scholars all over the world to tide over the crisis. Thus the conference carries with the title: "China and World Economy in Post Crisis Era" .

Selected distinguished scholars and government officials, from China, France, Australia, North America and elsewhere, will be invited to deliver keynote addresses to the conference. A business lunch has also been planned to particularly cater for the business community to update their knowledge on the Chinese economy and market.

We would like to invite all papers that review and evaluate the international financial crisis and China and world economic growth from various kinds of perspectives. Major conference topics include, but not limited to:

- Features of China and world economy in post crisis era
  - Forecasts of world economic growth
  - Sino-U.S. economic relationship in post crisis era
  - Comparisons on financial regulations between U.S. and European Union
