Hockey player organizes clothing drive for teens

On the weekends, Mallory Peckels is praised by fans for her moves on the ice. During the week, however, it does not take a goal or assist for this Ohio State women's hockey player to feel rewarded.

A senior in social work, Peckels is an intern at Huckleberry House, a non-profit organization near campus that provides services for runaway teenagers. For this weekend's home series versus Minnesota Duluth, Peckels is organizing "Hat Trick for the Huck House," a clothing drive to benefit the organization.

Fulbright feature ?Denise Bronson

For 15 years, Denise Bronson has been traveling to Poland annually. In 1997 Bronson, an Associate Professor in the College of Social Work, initiated Ohio State's Study Abroad program in Poland which takes her to Poland for short stays while serving as the program's resident director. But this winter, Bronson will spend five months in Poland as a recipient of a Fulbright fellowship teaching at Jagiellonian University in Krakow, Poland.
