

《语音研究报告》

2003

Report of Phonetic Research

DECLINATION LINE AND TONES VARIATIONS IN STANDARD CHINESE (ABSTRACT)

Agnès Belotel-Grenié *Michel Grenié

Chinese is a tone language. As a tone language, each lexical item has an inherent tone pattern. In Chinese there are four tones : high, rising, low and falling. Our experiment investigates first the pattern of declination in Standard Chinese broadcasts and TV news speech, secondly the interaction of this effect with the sentence length and finally the evolution of the tones F0 values all through the sentence. Furthermore, we have investigated the prosodic structure of the newscast discourse.

全文: 2003_25.pdf

— 上一章 目录 下一章