

Portuguese at Oxford

Current Students

Undergraduate

Graduate

Prospective Students

Undergraduate

Graduate

Other Information

Teaching Staff

Related Web Sites

Research

Navigation

Portuguese Homepage

Faculty Homepage

Welcome!

Journeys of (Self)Discovery in Brazilian Cinema

This is a one-day conference on road movies and travel narratives. It takes place on Friday 2nd May 2008 and will be held in the McKenna Room, Christ Church College, Oxford.

There is no conference fee, but advanced registration is required. Please register with your name and affiliation by emailing felicity.dibben@mod-langs.ox.ac.uk by 25th April.

- Programme
- Abstracts
- Directions to venue

First Anglo-Dutch Workshop on Intellectual Relations between Portugal and Northern Europe, 11-12 April 2008

Fernando Pessoa - Man of a thousand faces, 1 March - 12 April 2008

The Taylor Institution Library invites you to come and see a small display of books from the Library's collection on Portugal's great 20th-century poet Fernando Pessoa. The Taylor Institution Library is open Monday to Friday from 9am to 7pm, and on Saturdays from 10am to 4pm.

Oxford University is one of the few institutions which can boast an independent unit devoted solely to the teaching of Portuguese and Brazilian Studies.

The Sub-Faculty of Portuguese has four teaching members: the King John II Professor of Portuguese Studies, two University Lecturers, and a leitor appointed by the Instituto Camões. It also works closely with the Centre for Brazilian Studies.

Members of the sub-Faculty have distinct but complementary areas of expertise which allow it to offer undergraduate courses and graduate research across the broadest spectrum, from modern literature (including Brazilian and African writers, and modern women's writing) through sixteenth-century poetry and drama to medieval literature and Linguistics.

Members of the sub-Faculty have been involved in numerous international organisations, projects and congresses, and were responsible for founding the Centre for the Study of the Portuguese Discoveries.

Site Disclaimer | Disabilities Statement | Search These Pages
41 & 47 Wellington Square | Oxford OX1 2JF | Tel: +44 1865 270750 | Fax: +44 1865 270757
reception@mod-langs.ox.ac.uk