18 Dec 2006, 2006 ITF Women's World Champion Justine Henin-

Hardenne was officially appointed a UNESCO Champion for Sport by the organisation's Director General Koichiro Matsuura at an official ceremony in the Tennisium at Roland Garros on 14 December.

Henin-

Hardenne, the first woman to be named UNESCO Champion for Sport, will help promote the International Convention Against Doping in Sport, which is soon to come into force. The nomination recognises her personal commitment of excellence, fair play and integrity throughout her career.

Mr Matsuura said: "I am delighted this exemplary champion has accepted to use her fame to serve the fight against doping in sport and the education of young people. These are major societal challenges that require our entire s
