

Pavle Levi

Faculty

Professor

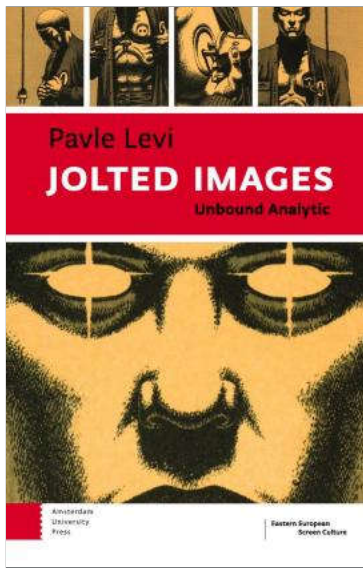

Film and Media Studies

About

Pavle Levi is Associate Professor in the Art Department's Film and Media Studies Program. He is also Faculty Director of Stanford's Center for Russian, East European, and Eurasian Studies (CREEES). Prof. Levi's primary areas of research and teaching include: European cinema (emphasis on Eastern Europe), aesthetics and ideology, film and media theory, experimental cinema, intersections of theory and practice. He is the recipient of the 2011 Gores Award for Excellence in Teaching.

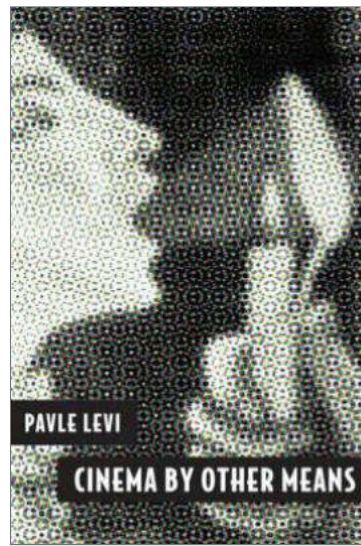

Work

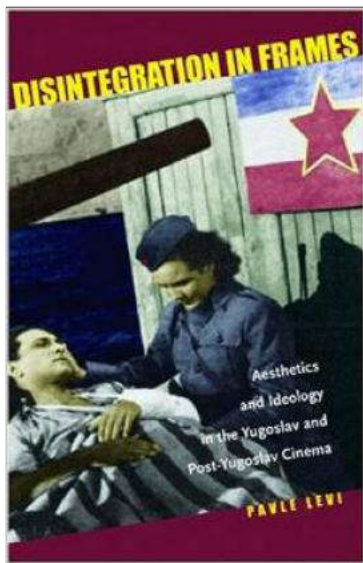

Jolted Images (Unbound Analytic)

JUL 2018

Cinema by Other Means

APR 2012

Disintegration in Frames

MAR 2007

Events

The Pill: Chemistry, Art & Art History and the Legacy of Carl Djerassi

OCTOBER 20, 2017

FREE AND OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

OSHMANN HALL, MCMURTRY BUILDING

Related News

OCT 26 2017

News from the Documentary Film Program - Fall 2017

Recent highlights from the MFA Documentary Film and Video ProgramStanford University, Department of Art & Art History Three Stanford films will screen at the upcoming DOC...

Contact

Phone: (650)725-5467

Email: plevi@stanford.edu

Office Hours

By appointment

Office: McMurtry Bldg., Rm. 332