About HCRC

When people communicate, they process vast quantities of information. The Human Communication Research Centre (HCRC) is an interdisciplinary research centre at the Universities of Edinburgh and Glasgow that brings together theories and methods from several formal and experimental disciplines to understand better how this happens. We focus on spoken and written language; we also study communication in other media — visual, graphical and computer-based.

HCRC brings together researchers from different schools and universities:

- The Institute for Language, Cognition, and Computation \(ILCC\) in the School of Informatics at the University of Edinburgh
- The School of Philosophy, Psychology, and Language Sciences at the University of Edinburgh
- The Department of Psychology at the University of Glasgow
