

This block contains a large amount of code, likely a configuration file or a script, which is mostly illegible due to its complexity and length. It appears to be a JSON-like structure with many nested objects and arrays, possibly representing a configuration for a software application or a system. The code is heavily commented with numerous explanatory comments in Chinese, which provide context for the various parameters and settings defined.

