Miss a talk? Recorded presentations are now available. Free to view by all!

The 97th AMS Annual Meeting took place in Seattle from January 22–26, 2017. Over 4,400 scientists, educators, students, and other professionals from across the weather, water, and climate community came together to share, learn, and collaborate.

EXPLORE THE ANNUAL #### MEETING THEME

“Observations Lead the Way”

In all issues facing the American Meteorological Society (AMS) and the professions it serves, the first priority should always be to obtain the necessary observations and information. Whether to address numerical weather prediction, climate, situational awareness, economic value of forecasts, societal impacts, or any other need, data-driven, science-driven decisions move our community and society forward.
