Abstract. By analyzing the features in Korean nationality's rural landscape, abundant precious fortune of cultural value can be explored. This paper, based on the combination of the peculiar layout characteristics of rural Korea and the theory of rural landscape, intends to probe into the future rural landscape in Korean area with the research emphasis on the development of traditional rural Korea in aspects of geographical shape, national culture, spatial arrangement, etc.

Introduction

Korean nationality, formed mainly by immigrants from the Korean peninsula, has a history of many hundreds of years, it becomes one of the minority nationalities in China, mainly distributed in provinces like Jilin, Heilongjiang and Liaoning. Not only does Korean nationality have a long history, but it has left many precious cultural heritage in terms of traditional national landscape.

Traditional rural landscape of Korean nationality is developed after going through a very long-term historical evolution. It has very distinct national characteristics. By combining its specific spatial distribution, geographical features and natural landscape, people of Korean ethnic group have created valuable fortune under this certain environment and social background, which fully reflects the Korean history and culture with strong national customs.

Connotation of rural landscape

With the development of the era, rural landscape has been paid more and more attention to. It not only stands for the historic nature of a certain area, but also the regionalism, nationality and culture in the area. In combining with the natural environment, rural landscape is fully fused with daily life of the locals, creating the rural landscape.

Rural landscape not only is simple in natural beauty, but also has beauty of life closest to human life. Therefore, in search for traditional Korean villages, it is of great use to study the spatial composition of the rural landscape of Korean nationality, which has distinct features and unique style in terms of geographical shape, national culture, spatial arrangement, etc.

The composition of rural landscape

Rural landscape mainly refers to all the landscape except the urban landscape. Environment of regular pattern but rich in local characteristic takes shape under certain environment. As a result, rural landscape leaves spatial form of historical and cultural values. Here, only natural landscape and human landscape will be concerned.

Natural landscape

Natural landscape mainly includes the naturally formed landform, mountains and rivers, flora and fauna, etc. left during long-period evolution. They have formed the constituent elements with some certain locality for rural landscape, each of which has different role to play and existing mode in rural landscape.
