The first research works on neurotechnology can be dated back nearly half a century, but it is in the XXI century that most significant advances are being witnessed. Neurotechnology shows a very high potential of enhancing human activities, involving technologies such as neural rehabilitation, neural prosthesis, neuromodulation, neurosensing and diagnosis, and other combinations of neurological and biomedical knowledge with engineering technologies

CONGRESS AREAS

- 1 . Neural Rehabilitation and Neuroprosthetics
- 2 . Neuroimaging and Neurosensing
- 3 . Neuroinformatics and Neurocomputing
- 4 . Neuromodulation and Neural Engineering

CONGRESS CHAIR

Antón Cívot, University of Seville, Spain

PROGRAM CO-CHAIRS

Francisco Gómez Rodríguez, University of Seville, Spain
Luis Azevedo, Anditec, Portugal
