

Initial text of the document, including a title and introductory sentence.

Main body of the document containing the primary text and a large table with multiple columns and rows.

Continuation of the main body text, including a table with multiple columns and rows.

Footer text containing document metadata and page information.