

... (The page contains a dense grid of small, illegible text fragments, likely a scan of a document with very small font or a corrupted image. The text is too small to transcribe accurately.)

Main body of text containing various biological and chemical terms, including amino acid sequences and protein names.

Section containing specific biological terms and sequences, such as 'Tetrahymena' and 'E. coli' related sequences.

Section containing detailed biological information, including 'Primary structure' and 'Secondary structure' descriptions.

