6th UK-China Symposium on Tribology and Surface Engineering “Nanomaterials & Tribology”

31st August - 1st September 2014, Southampton, UK

The UK-China Tribology Symposium is a joint annual event initiated by national Centre for Advanced Tribology at Southampton (nCATS) and the State Key Laboratory of Solid Lubrication of Lanzhou Institute of Chemical Physics (LICP), Chinese Academy of Sciences and co-sponsored by Research Councils UK in 2009. The annual Tribology Symposium had been held successfully over the past five years, where the most recent one (2013 in Qingdao) was co-organised by University of Technology..

The 6th annual Tribology Symposium this year will be held in the coastal city Southampton, UK, between 31 August and 1 September 2014. This symposium will focus on “Nanomaterials and Tribology” but all the research areas in Tribology and Surface Engineering are welcome. It will provide timely opportunities for researchers in tribology and surface engineering to network with researchers from the world leading institutions. We are pleased to extend our enthusiastic welcome you to the 6th UK-China Tribology Symposium at Southampton, UK.
