Welcome to the IAI website

Welcome to the site of the International Aluminium Institute (IAI) - your gateway into the world aluminium industry. As the global forum of aluminium and alumina producers we are dedicated to the development and wider use of this competitive and uniquely valuable material.

Aluminium has so many applications it is impossible to imagine a world without it. The amazing, unique qualities of this metal give it an almost endless range of applications, from transport, packaging, electrical application, medicine, and construction of homes and furniture.

It is key to improving global living standards and developing a better and more sustainable world environment.

IAI members represent 80% of world aluminium production
