PMAsia 2009 Promoting Powder Metallurgy in Asia

6-8 April 2009, Shanghai, China

Metal Powder Report is pleased to announce PM Asia 2009, dedicated to promoting powder metallurgy in Asia. PM Asia 2009 will take place in Shanghai, China, from 6-8 April 2009.

The event will take place at the Shanghai Everbright Convention Center, and will be co-located with the China Cemented Carbides event. The PM Asia Conference Programme will provide component producers, suppliers, and end-users in a rapidly growing Asian market with the latest information on global PM technology trends.

This year's event will include:

- Keynote presentations by world-renowned PM experts addressing technical and business trends at both regional and international levels
- A comprehensive programme of technical sessions providing in-depth analysis of:
 - PM technology in powder production
 - Powder consolidation and sintering
 - Applications of ferrous, non-ferrous and hard materials
- A PM exhibition offering the international PM community a forum for doing business in Asia

Conference Topics

The conference will cover the following areas:

- PM Applications in Automotive Engines
- PM Gear Applications
- Developments in Materials for PM Structural Parts
- Production Technology Developments
- Metal Injection Moulding
