

Welcome to the Website for Prof. Hae-Seung Lee

Hae-Seung Lee was born in Seoul, South Korea in 1955. He received the B.S. and the M.S. degrees in Electronic Engineering from Seoul National University, Seoul, Korea in 1978 and 1980 respectively. He received the Ph.D. degree in electrical engineering from the University of California, Berkeley, in 1984, where he developed self-calibration techniques for A/D converters.

In 1980, he was a Member of the Technical Staff in the Department of Mechanical Engineering at the Korean Institute of Science and Technology, Seoul, Korea, where he was involved in the development of alternative energy sources. Since 1984, he has been with the Department of Electrical Engineering and Computer Science at Massachusetts Institute of Technology Microsystems Technology Laboratories, Cambridge, MA, where he is now a Professor. Since 1985, he has acted as Consultant to Analog Devices, Inc., Wilmington, MA. His research interests are in the area of analog integrated circuits, early vision circuits, fabrication technologies, and solid-state sensors.

Prof. Lee is a recipient of the 1988 Presidential Young Investigators' Award. He has served on a number of technical program committees for various IEEE conferences, including the International Electron Devices Meeting, the International Solid-State Circuits Conference, the Custom Integrated Circuits Conference, and the IEEE Symposium on VLSI Circuits. From 1992 to 1994 he was an associate editor for the IEEE Journal of Solid-State Circuits. Prof. Lee is a Fellow in IEEE and has been a member since 1988. Prof. Lee has been on the ISSCC Program Committee since 1998 to present. He is the Director for MIT's Center for Integrated Circuits and Systems and newly announced Associate Director of MTL.
