

ICMCIS 2017, Oulu, Finland, May 15-16, 2017

INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON MILITARY COMMUNICATIONS AND INFORMATION SYSTEMS

The ICMCIS is an international forum with 19 years of tradition in military communications and information systems, making it a unique European conference. The intent of the conference is to create a forum for useful contacts, and exchange ideas on the development as well as implementation of advanced information and communications technologies and services in military systems. The conference gives a unique opportunity to discuss different points of view, and share experience with colleagues from European and NATO nations involved in CIS.

ICMCIS2017 is organized in Oulu, the capital of Northern Scandinavia, by Centre for Wireless Communications at the University of Oulu with support from Finnish Defence Research Agency.

The ICMCIS is committed to high publication ethics standards through a peer review process. Submitted manuscripts must be original and not published or under consideration elsewhere. They must not infringe any copyright or third party right. The topics of interest are shown on the left hand side of the call for papers. The accepted papers will be published in the conference proceedings and submitted to IEEE Explore as well as other Abstracting and Indexing (A&I) databases.
