

MEDIA AND PUBLIC RELATIONS AT BINGHAMTON UNIVERSITY

Recent Press Releases

College education aids in proper use of dietary supplements among young adults

🕒 Nov 05

Young adults who are educated about dietary supplements in college are more likely to use them appropriately, according to new research from Binghamton University.

(<https://www.binghamton.edu/news/story/1430/college-education-aids-in-proper-use-of-dietary-supplements-among-young-adu>)

Binghamton University to host Election Day party

🕒 Nov 01

The Binghamton University Center for Civic Engagement (CCE) will host an Election Day party at the on-campus polling location in the Tillman Lobby and Old Union Hall, in the University Union.

(<https://www.binghamton.edu/news/story/1429/binghamton-university-to-host-election-day-party>)

Binghamton University Theatre Department to present 'Guys and Dolls'

🕒 Oct 31

The Binghamton University Theatre Department will premiere its fall musical of the 2018-19 Mainstage Season, Guys and Dolls, at 8 p.m. Friday, Nov. 9, in the Watters Theaters, in the Fine Arts Building.

(<https://www.binghamton.edu/news/story/1426/binghamton-university-theatre-department-to-present-guys-and-dolls>)

Binghamton In the News

Experts unravel mystery of ancient Easter Island statues

New York Post

🕒 Oct 11

Carl Lipo, professor of anthropology, and his research team were featured in The N Post, Fox News, The Daily Mail and various other publications for their research revealing the famous Easter Island statues, called moai, were built along the coast of the remote island to mark the location of freshwater sources used for survival.

<https://nypost.com/2018/10/11/experts-unravel-mystery-of-ancient-easter-island-statues/>

