Behavioural Pharmacology publishes research papers that study the ways in which behaviour is affected by any aspect of drug action. This encompasses such topics as drug, chemical, and hormonal effects on behaviour and resultant behaviour methods for the study of drug action. Speed of publication is a major feature of the journal.

Important Message: Easily submit and review manuscripts online with LWW's Prompt/Editorial Manager. This automated, web-based tool simplifies the manuscript submission and review processes and enables users to electronically submit, review and track manuscripts and artwork online in a few easy steps.

We invite contributors and reviewers to begin using the Prompt/Editorial Manager interface today at <http://bpharm.edmgr.com>.
