

TORENO 2006 Official Report To IOC Executive Board

http://www.torino06.it 2007-02-08

1.0.0 | The Olympic Movement

1.0.1 | The Olympic Movement

1.0.2 | 10 February 2007 - The President of the Torino 2006 Organizing Committee (TOROC), Valentino Costantini, today presented TOROC's Official Report to the IOC Executive Board, almost one year to the day after the Opening Ceremony of these Olympic Winter Games, which began on 10 February 2006. The president of the Italian Olympic Committee (IOC Executive Board member and the Games Supervisor of the Torino Games for the Italian Government, TOROC's Official Report will also be presented to the IOC Session in Guatemala City this July.

1.0.3 | 10 February - Winter Games Report

1.0.4 | Torino 2006

The President of the Torino 2006 Organizing Committee (TOROC), Valentino Costantini, today presented TOROC's Official Report to the IOC Executive Board, almost one year to the day after the Opening Ceremony of these Olympic Winter Games, which began on 10 February 2006. Also present was Maria Procacci, IOC Executive Board member and the Games Supervisor of the Torino Games for the Italian Government. TOROC's Official Report will also be presented to the IOC Session in Guatemala City this July.

1.0.5 | A Magnificent Olympic Legacy

These Games, which were described as "very significant Games" by IOC President Jacques Rogge, have since the Closing Ceremony, written another magnificent chapter in their story.

A legacy story. The Olympic venues and the knowledge gained through organizing the Games have permitted Torino and the Piedmont Region to gain a great legacy, not only in the form of sporting, commercial and social facilities, such as outdoor accommodation, sports venues and office premises, but also in how the knowledge base in event management that has seen Torino and the Piedmont region host 20 major sports events and 40 other events.

Games Foundation has been set up to work with the Olympic legacy, along with a management company which, using some of TOROC's former staff members, will manage some of the Olympic venues. Thanks to this legacy and the legacy of the Games, many athletes in the region have now taken up winter sports.

The TOROC Official Report

The Official Report is produced by each Organizing Committee after their edition of the Games has come to a close, and it provides an official record from the Organizing Committee of how they staged the Games. The Official Report from TOROC comprises three books and two CD's.

ROMA. There is a book dedicated to a summary of Games preparation, TOROC's Sustainability Report and a "journal" book, which shows the Games off in stunning colour photography. The two CDs contain the results of the Torino Games and the Torino 2006 bid documents.

"Torino06"

As this is the last time that TOROC reports to the IOC Executive Board, IOC President Jacques Rogge President Costantini, Maria Procacci and all the TOROC team for their excellent achievement in putting on the Games. He concluded by saying: "You and the members of TOROC are members of the Olympic Family, and this is forever." In which the Games may be over, this is not the end of TOROC and Torino's Olympic adventure.

TORENO 2006

The Olympic Winter Games were held in Torino from 10 to 26 February 2006. The Torino Games comprised seven different sports, and 17 different disciplines, which were played out in eight different competition sites. Around 1,500 athletes, 650 judges and umpires and over 90,000 spectators participated in the 20th edition of the Winter Games.

