MISSION STATEMENT

To disseminate knowledge about all aspects of human sexuality to the widest possible international community at moderate cost.

The method we choose to use:

- 1) Peer and reader reviewed research articles.
- 2) Dissertations and Theses on the subject of sexuality, which have been approved by the author's appropriate academic committee.
- 3) General interest articles by qualified authors.
- 4) Posters from faculty and student presentations that have appeared at an academic meeting..
- 5) Book reviews of relevant books
- 6) Broad content, not academically narrow in focus.
- 7) Continuously interactive and constantly updated, available 24 hours a day.
- 8) Easily searchable and downloadable for research purposes or general education.
- 9) Unlimited size, extensive graphic capabilities.
- 10) Archived annually on CD ROM and available to libraries worldwide. To obtain CD copies of current and past volumes, contact Dr. Hall.

research papers published after 10/10/06. You are asked to write to the author and the senior editor with your comments, complaints or requested changes. Authors will be expected to reply, with copy to the editor. Final decisions on the content are the responsibility of the authors, but the editors will have the final say on whether the comments are published, in the absence of changes by the author, or on removal of the article if serious problems are reported.
