

Main body of the document containing various text elements, including a large table with multiple columns and rows of data.

A large table with multiple columns and rows, containing various data points and possibly serving as a data table or index.

Text content located below the table, including various paragraphs and possibly a list or index.

Text content located below the previous section, including various paragraphs and possibly a list or index.