Excellence recognised in University Health Centre team

Mon, 21 Dec 2009 13:09:00 GMT

The University of Nottingham Health Service has been shortlisted for a prestigious Recognising Excellence in Healthcare award.

The awards, run by the British Medical Journal (BMJ) Group of magazines, recognises individuals, organisations and initiatives that have demonstrated outstanding and measurable contributions to health care.

The NHS Nottingham City team, who are based at the Cripps Health Centre on University Park, have been shortlisted in the Primary Care Team of the Year category. This focuses on the services the team offer to staff and students and the work they have done in partnership with the University — in particular with the University Sexual Health Worker.
