

FINANCE DEPARTMENT

Stern Finance is widely recognized as one of the premier departments of finance in the world.

With over 40 full-time faculty conducting state of the art research in all key aspects of the field, students have access to an enormous variety of courses reflecting the latest research findings and market practices.

I invite you to explore these pages to experience the range of research, courses, seminars, special events and other resources that contribute to the vibrant intellectual life of our department. I also invite all visitors to examine Restoring Financial Stability: Policy Recommendations from NYU Stern, co-edited by Finance Professors Viral Acharya and Matthew Richardson, offering financial policy alternatives—and specific courses of action—to restore the global financial system.
