Fact Proposition and Value Proposition In Library Research

Duan Xiaohu (Xi' an University of Arts and Science, Shanxi 710065)

Abstract: The discussion of important issues, such as library and harmonious society, library core ability, library professional spirit as well as reader's right, all involves two categories including the fact and the value. The author analyses the difference and the relation between the fact proposition (fact research) and the value proposition (value research) in the epistemology and the methodology. Further reconsiders on the current library research situation in the value domain and the fact domain, and provides a new point of view to the research.

Keywords: Library science, Fact proposition, Value proposition, Fact and value
