Collaborative Virtual Reference Service: Towards Librarian Experts' Sharing

Xu Keqian (Library of Nanjing Normal University, Jiangsu 210097)

Abstract: Collaborative virtual reference service is an inevitable trend of library's development in the era of internet. It provides a new arena for librarians to realize and share their value as the experts of information managing and consulting. The current situation of collaborated virtual reference service, its system function, foreground and some related problems are discussed in this paper.
