

★ When I was a child , my father was strict with me. He hardly hits me, but he always looks so solemn that every child scares him. Especially my cousin, the son of my father's little sister, he was one of the most person who was afraid of my dad in our family.

- V-T If something scares you, it frightens or worries you. 惊吓

例:

You're scaring me.

你吓着我了。

The prospect of failure scares me rigid.

失败的可能吓得我都僵了。

- 2.PHRASE If you want to emphasize that something scares you a lot, you can say that it scares the hell out of you or scares the life out of you.

吓死了

★If you meet my father, the first impression to him, I guess, is "too thin! ". In fact, not only my father, but also the whole gentlemen are thin and I believe it is as a result the blood relationship. You could recognize it from me. Looking at his face closer, you will find he is such a handsome man with eyes brimming with radiating vigour, a straight nose and an angular face. When he was young, it is no exaggeration to say, he was absolutely a lady killer. Unluckily, they were not fully passed on to me.

★I don't know how to describe my father in the way that using some adjective words or phrases. In other words, using words to describe my father in my heart is difficult. There is following something happened between my father and me. My father gave me a free and happy childhood. I remembered that he spends his spare time to accompany me on playing. He encouraged me to climb trees, catch the worm and other things that my mother thought dangerous. Owing to his accompaniment, I avoided something bad would occur. Thanks for his encouragement, I am not a timid girl when I grow older.

★My father teaches me how to get along well with my friends and deals with thing.

★For our city is quite small and under-development, a lot of rare toys or snacks which can easily be found in Shanghai are not accessible for us.

★My love for him is beyond words can express.

★The love of father likes a mountain

★Many friends were attracted by my father's handsome and humor.

★I wish a happy Father's Day.

★My father's love for me by the way of a man which is different from my mother.

★My father is a pretty ordinary man who just do his work hardly and care for our family.

★With the time went by, the relationship between my father and I become more and more closer.

★ Oddly enough, I felt reassured rather than fear

★And he also lets me do anything by myself even if that is a trivial matter.

★And my father who worked all day insisted on sending me to school and back to home every night.

★And for me, my father always acts as an old friend in my whole life, he refuses to make a decision for me, not like other fathers, but he leads me to decide follow my heart.

★I make this wish, to be old, to grow up, is to become an experienced man to conquer every problem and can make an umbrella over my parents head.